

Architect Member

Any architect currently entitled under state law to practice architecture and use the title Architect in any state of the United States is eligible to be an Architect member. Good standing in the profession and in the community shall also be demonstrated. (Note: Individuals need not be licensed in the state in which they are making application for AIA membership, although state law governs whether they can call themselves architects and therefore use of "AIA" after their names.)

Architect members may use, in connection with their practice and work, the initials AIA after their names and the titles Architect Member of The American Institute of Architects, and Member of the Hong Kong Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Architect members may also hold the titles Fellow and/or Emeritus, if deemed appropriate by the institute.

The acronym AIA is copyrighted and its specific use is limited to an individual Architect member. No membership category exists for firms, and using AIA in trade names that do not contain a member name is not allowed. In corporate names that include such terms as associates, company, P.A., Ltd., or the like, use of AIA is permissible and acceptable only when placed immediately after the Architect member's name. Architect members may wear the gold lapel pin and use the AIA emblem on their stationary, business cards, publications, and purchased advertisements. Only those firms whose majority ownership or control is vested in AIA members may use the emblem in these ways. Architect members are required to join both AIA National and the AIA Hong Kong (component chapter). The cost of AIA membership is US$576.00¹ per annum. Membership dues are pro-rated by quarter.

Architect members:

- May serve as a voting member on section, chapter, and state boards.
- May speak and vote in section, chapter, state and regional meetings on business matters and in elections on all issues.
- May be appointed as a member of committees at all levels of the AIA.
- May serve as chapter delegate to state, regional, and national AIA conventions.
- May participate in all Institute group insurance, retirement and other benefit programs².
- May serve as a national officer, regional director to the national board, or component officer or chair of a national committee.

Benefits of Membership:

- Use initials "AIA" which carry worldwide recognition and respect of the profession.
- Attend interesting guided building tours, seminars and quarterly meetings featuring guest speakers to meet Continuing Education System (CES) requirements.
- Networking - opportunities to meet informally with local architects or other professionals and gain insight about the current issues affecting the industry.
- Listing in the AIA Hong Kong Members Directory and/or AIA Hong Kong web site.
- Receive chapter e-newsletter, publications and unrestricted access to AIA web sites.
- Subscription to Architect magazine and AIA Architect e-newsletter.

¹ excludes Advertising Assessment which may be invoiced separately if so determined by the National component.

² Some limitations may apply to non U.S. residents.
